UPDATE - Kootenai County DMV / Driver's Licensing

Coeur d'Alene, Idaho: The Kootenai County Department of Motor Vehicle Licensing is OPEN. Citizens may still register their vehicles at both the Coeur d'Alene and Post Falls locations. However, the Driver's Licensing Department is still closed and we are not able to process Driver's License requests at this time.

Due to computer outages at the Idaho Transportation Department (ITD), Kootenai County Driver's License offices in Coeur d'Alene and Post Falls will still be closed the remainder of the day. We are hopeful these technical issues will be resolved by the end of business today and that our local DMV offices will re-open business as usual tomorrow.

Starting mid-day Monday, the Idaho Transportation Department started to experience problems with their computer system throughout the entire State of Idaho. These systems directly affect our local DMV offices, which have forced these closures. The Idaho Transportation Department is devoting all of their available technology resources towards repairing this technical issue.

The Sheriff's Office apologizes for the inconvenience. We are asking for the public's patience as ITD and their staff diligently work to find a solution.

The Sheriff's Office will provide updated information pertaining to the closures and when our Driver's License offices will be back open as soon as that information becomes available.
